lines Stand on Trusts in Speech at Detroit

DETROIT, Sept. 18.—President Taft at luncheon with the Board of Comwhat may be termed the political perately to save several others today from speeches of his six weeks' tour of the fire which started last night at the Hercountry. He took up the "trusts" and cules Oll Refining Co.'s plant, located clearly outlined his views concerning them. He defended with vigor the decisions of the United States Supreme Court in the Standard Oil and Tobac-co trust cases and there was a dis-tinct campaign note in Mr. Taft's challenge to his ancient political enemy, William Jennings Bryan, to point out what particular contract or restraint of trade he would condemn which would not be condemned within the would not be condemned within the definition of the statute as laid down by Chief Justice White.

Taft added rather significantly that persons who do not understand the decisions and really do not understand the decisions and really do not understand the law, have had a great deal to say about them. It was not fair to the court, he declared, to say that it had read the word "reasonable" into the anti-trust statute.

OPPOSES AMENDMENT.

"I am entirely opposed to an amendment of the anti-trust law," said the president. "It is now a valuable government asset and instrument. President Taft arrived here at 7 a.m. He was escorted to the Detroit Club, where he was entertained at Breakfast by Milton A. McRae and fifty Michigan newspapermen.

The President found a busy day outlined for him when he reached the city. Every minute of the nine and a half hours which his visit will cover, was accounted for. Following a breakfast at the Detroit Club the program included an address at, Pontiac after a twenty-six mile trolley ride, a

The President's train will leave for Saginaw at 11:25 p. m. QUESTION IS OLD.

My fellow Citizens: I propose to take up the question which has occupied the attention of the American people for now twenty years, that of industrial combinations, known as "trusts." During the last year we have had two great decisions by the Supreme Court of the United States. They are epoch-making and the public has not yet come to real. and the public has not yet come to realize the effect that those decisions are certain to have. It is not that the construction which the court has put upon the act is different from that which most the act is different from that which most members of the profession and most subordinate courts, and, indeed, the Supreme Court itself, had before indicated as the proper construction of the statute; except blankets. They are in good spirits despite the cold, of which they have two fully considered decisions in respect to two of the largest and most powerful of these combinations, what their illegister is they are to day.

Out of regard to Mrs. Clark's protests, he did not carry, out his intention of having her accompany him to the morgue, but left Burrell to explain the matter and listen to Mrs. Clark's statement that she had fallen out of bed in her sleep.

CERTAIN OF DEATH.

Several times during Saturday night the premier had broken out involuntarily with a murmured exclamation:
"If eel death stealing upon me."
The operation was entirely successful. The bullet was removed without difficulty by the use of a local anaesthetic and hopes apparently were justified when the premier experienced a great sense of relief and cheerfully falled with his attendants, inquiring of current events and commented on the appearance of his assailant.

"The little fellow was awfully pittiful as he came up to me in the theater," said Stolypin. "He was pale and bowed—a sorry figure."

Supervisors to Look Deeper Into Matten of Proposed Highways; Routine Is Attended To at Meeting

The supervisors this morning decided to refer to the committee of the whole and the county surveyor the matter of deciding what route or routes shall be taken for the proposed state highway in Alameda county.

This was done after the reading of a second communication from the California Highway Commission on the subject. It asked for a complete map of Alameda county, drawn to a scale of one-half inch to the mile, indicating the route or routes most desired by the supervisors for the proposed state highway system in this county, together with additional data of the population and assessed values of all towns and other. system in this county, together with ad-ditional data of the population and as-sessed values of all towns and other data valuable under the circumstances.

Among the facts sought are the as-sessed valuation of realty, improvements, personal property and solvent credits, auditor's valuation of property, railroads assessed by the state board of equalization, value of mortgages; the funded debt, bonded indebtedness for road purposes and a number of others. Bridge wanted the matter referred to a committee which could attend to it. The surveyor should be appointed to make the map required and select a route or routes with the supervisors, he said. Surveyor Haviland said that the request was for a map on a scale of half an inch to the mile, which would cost considerable. He suggested that one of the existing maps of the county be used and upon it the routes desired for the state highways could be indicated. WANTS TYPEWRITERS.

TRUST COMPANY CLOSES ITS DOORS

Philadelphia Concern, With $1,328,000 Deposits Is Forced to Suspend.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18. — The Tradesmen's Trust Company, with a capital of $500,000 and deposits, when the last report was made, of $1,228,000, closed its doors this morning. Peter Boyd, a well-known attorney, is president, having succeeded the late Mayor Samuel M. Ashbridge in the office when the latter died.

In a statement the company says:
"The board of directors of the Tradesmen's Trust Company has decided to close the doors of the Institution in order to protect the depositors who, in the judgment of the board, will receive dollar for dollar. The institution is solvent. Its assets, properly administered.

lost his life in the conflagration, and as the result of a fire, probably of incendiary origin, which broke out here at 3 o'clock yesterday morning on the third floor of the Mountain View hotel and consumed a considerable part of the town before it finally burned 'tiself out against the brick walls of the Newman grocery store. The loss is in the neighborhood of $20,000.

The blaze was finally conquered by a brigade of volunteers composed of practically the entire population. Prominent in the front ranks was Aviator Róbert G. Fowler, who is preparing to 'scale the high Sierra Tuesday on the third leg of his transcontinental aeroplane trip, Fowler was awakened by his mother in his room at the hotel shortly after the fire broke out. Quickly donning his clothes, he rushed to the scene and there was no one who fought more bravely than he.

JUMPS TO SIDEWALK.

He ran to the front of the building and, hesitating a moment, plunged to the sidewalk 25 feet below. Bruised and bleeding, he was picked up by the assembled crowd. A physician was summoned, and an examination showed that both of Hurst's legs had been broken and that he might be internally introd. He was rushed to Auburn and is at present at a hospital there.

Another man, whose name is not known, on account of the fact that the hotel register was burned, is missing. From the hotel the blaze spread to an adjoining saloon, then to a meat market owned by Dan Russell. By the time the fife brigade arrived these buildings were a mass of flames. Before the water could be turned on the blaze became too hot for the firemen, and they were forced to retreat, leaving the hose behind them.

Fanned by a slight wind, the flames vaulted the street and spread to a bakery, then consumed a vacant store and finally halted before a brick wall of a grocery store.

By the time the flames crossed the street the apparatus from Blue canyon had arrived, and, re-enforced by this, the local department finally succeeded in getting the fire under control.

Foreign Policy of Herr Von Bethmann Hollweg Makes Him Most Hated Man in Germany

(By FREDERICK WERNER.)

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—Before the end of the year, or at the very latest in January 1912, the general elections for the Reichstag are to take place, and as the time approaches the anxiety of the government, which expects a great defeat, is becoming more and more evident. While becoming more and more evident. While the patriotic Germans have little or no fault to find with the foreign policy of the present administration the great masses of the voters are thirsting for revenge over the ultra-conservative landowners (junkers) who in a conspiracy in in Albania—only the Poles (taught by landowners (junkers) who in a conspiracy in Albania—only the Poles (taught by landowners) and present a landowners of light silently and the becoming more and more evident. To the German who takes any interest in fereign polities Great Britain is the Power, which, in every direction blocks Germany's way to her "Place in the Sun," to use the phrase first em-ployed by Prince Buelow in connection with the seizure of Kino-Chau and rerently borrowed from him by the Em-

The fact surprises nobody in spite of the many official and semi-official declarations that Germany had no thought of ever disputing England's naval supremacy.

The existence of such an intention does not, however, mean that an immediate attempt will be made to carry it into execution. The Reichstag is rapidly approaching the term of its natural life. Its successor will be very differently constituted, and in all probability, for the moment little disposed to lay upon the nation the burden of increased armalments. No doubt strenuous efforts will be made to use the Morocco difficulty for the purpose of obtaining a docite

WERE NOT FORTUNATE.

WERE NOT FORTUNATE.

The early decisions under the law can not be said to have been fortunate. The decision in what was known as the sugar trust case—whe Knight case—was really a retrograde step, and one which seemed to limit much the operation of the statute. It encouraged the organization of ute. It encouraged the organization of combinations which the same court has since found violate the statute. The case could not be effectively presented court because the record had not to the court because the record had not been properly made up, and the questions arising were treated in the opinion in such a way as to give the impression that the operation of the law would be most restricted, because of the limits of federal jurisdiction. Indeed, some law officers of the government did not hesitate to say that under this decision there was little hope of reaching the evil aimed at through federal action. It has required twenty years of litigation to make the statute clear. But now it is clear.

I shall not attempt to give it a close, lawyer-like interpretation, but I think it is not departing from the declaration of the court to say that they find any contract in restraint of trade, made for the purpose of excluding competition, controlling prices, or of maintaining a monopoly, in part of in whole, is contrary to the statute, and is subject to injunction and indictment under this statute in the federal courts when the federal courts in the federal courts, where it affects interstate trade.

Now, I would like to ask Mr. Bryan or any of the other publicists and jurists who have been deneuncing this opinion as the surrender of the rights of the people and a usurpation of judicial power. to tell the public what particular con-tract or restraint of interstate trade he would condemn which would not be con-demned within this definition of the court. The difficulty with the literal l construction of the statute is that it court. The difficulty with the literal construction of the statute is that it would denounce a great many minor or incidental restraints of trade, which made the statute ridiculous and weakened its effect, and lent support to the criticisms and contemptuous treatment of the statute by those who were opposed its passage and enforcement.

For instance, take the instance cited the statute instance cited the statute with the sustance of the business. The construction of the statute with the sustance cited the business. The construction of the statute with the sustance cited the business. The construction of the statute with the sustance cited the business. The construction of the statute with the sustance cited the business. The construction of the statute with the sustance cited the business. The construction of the statute is possible by amendance the statute will be accomplished, and with least disturbance to business, competition, control prices and do it all power by taking too great profit out of the statute will be accomplished.

For instance, take the instance cited the business.

Such a result is really a reduction ad absurdum, and no one who was in favor a making the statute effective for the purposes for which it was passed, and had any intelligent appreciation of what the statute was intended to accomplish and what it meant, would contend for such a construction. It is true that in one of the decisions of the Supreme Court, and the very same judge, when a case arose presenting a restraint of trade, that must be condemned as unlawful to the statute that must be condemned as unlawful to the suprementation of the court a power impossible to exercise on any consistent principle with the substance of the suprementation. It is true that in one of the decisions of the Supreme Court of the statute, and then that it should be left to the court to say what is a reasonable restraint of trade, what is a reasonable monopoly. I venture to think that this is to put into the lands of the court a power impossible to exercise on any consistent principle. trade that must be condemned as unlawful if a literal meaning were to be given to the statute, said in so many words that it must be reasonably construed, and that it must not be held to include contracts that were merely incidental restraints of trade, and were not made for that purpose. In one of these cases a man owned some steamboats that did an interstate business on the Ohio river. He wished to sell out. He did sell out, and in the sale of the steamboats he wished to sell the good will of the line which he had been running. Accordingly, he stipulated that he would not himself engage in that business between those same points for a certain number of years. This was interstate business and his contract was in restraint of that it must not be held to include conand his contract was in restraint of trade, but the Supreme Court held that It was a mere incidental restraint, i.e., incidental to the sale of the good will, and so was not within the statute. This would have been the same at common law, where from time immemorial such restraint as this has been held to be a restraint as this has been field to be reasonable because limited to the necessity of preserving the good will which the vendor was selling and which but for such agreement would be worth nothing. In other words, the Supreme Court in this case gave a reisonable construction to the statute and eliminated from its to the statute and eliminated from its operation those harmless useful incidental restraints growing out of lawful contracts which are made for an entirely different purpose from that of controlldifferent purpose from that of controlling prices or maintaining a monopoly by suppressing competition and which have always been recognized as properly enforceable by courts of both law and equity. I repeat again that in spite of all the denunciations that we have heard of all decisions of the Supreme Court in the Standard Oil and the tobacco cases, there is not one who has criticised them that can formulate a contract in restraint of trade that ought to come within the statute that does not come within it under the decision of the Supreme Court. It is said that the Supreme Court has It is said that the Supreme Court has in these combinations and a suspension read something into the statute that was of the legitimate part of their business not there before; that it has inserted would be buried with them in a comthe word "trasonable" before restraints mon ruin. of trade when the same court had said

Let us renew again the invitation to any of the vociferous critics of the decision of the Supreme Court to use their legal imaginations and state the facts of ceed to state socialism and vest the government with newer to any every business.

Now, I desire to call attention to a very broad distinction that many persons have failed to draw or perceive between a reasonable construction of the statute which the Supreme Court has insisted upon, and the introduction of the word "reasonable" in the statute so as to lead to a result by which combinations for the purpose of restraining trade with a view to controlling prices and maintaining a monopoly could be held to be reasonable and thus lawful. Until the decision of and thus lawful. Until the decision of the Supreme Court in these last two cases, there was a clearly defined hope in the minds of many business men who had reached the conclusion that it was impossible to conduct business on a free competitive basis, and that it was necessary to secure monopolistic control of prices and competition in order to make business reasonably profitable, that in some way or other the statute could be construct as to make it apply only to the construct as the make it apply only the construct as the make it apply only the construct as the conduction of the conduction o construed as to make it apply only to unreasonable monopolies and unreasonable by them in the future. The operation of prices. They had in their minds the thought that in some way or other a standard could be set by which if those with a control of issues of this importance two standard could be set by which if those who enjoyed the monopoly and the restraint of competition and the control of prices did not abuse their power to the point of securing from the public exporbitant profits, their arrangements could be held to be only reasonable and not within the statute or punishable by law. Tested and brought into practical and beneficial use by twenty years of litigation and construction by the highest court, why should we imperil its usefulness by ex-periments? ### Insulting an Invited Guest.

Some of our State contemporaries seem determined to make the President's visit to California the occasion for an offensive discussion of his official record and political future. They refer to his trip to the Pacific Coast as a "political pilgrimage," and profess to regard his coming out here as an electioneering tour.

This, to our mind, is unjust and inhospitable. It is certainly ill-timed and disrespectful to the Chief Magistrate, inasmuch as he is coming to California as an invited guest. President Taft was solicited to come to San Francisco and be present when ground was broken for the Panama-Pacific Exposition. He was asked to come in the belief that his presence would give eclat to the occasion and in some degree contribute to the success of that great enterprise.

Therefore the President will come here at our request to do us a favor. It is a violation of the truth to speak of his visit as a political pilgrimage and a violation of the canons and rites of hospitality to make him the subject of acrimonious and extremely personal criticism during his stay among us.

It is impossible for the President to separate himself from the political situation in which he is placed. He cannot do that any more than he can separate himself from the high office he holds. Every person of intelligence knows he will be a candidate for reelection next year. That was as well known when he was invited to be present at the ground-breaking for the exposition as it is now. But he was not invited because he is a candidate for re-election, but because he is President of the United States, and because he threw the weight of his great influence in favor of San Francisco when the site of the exposition was hanging in the balance.

The President cannot prove that his trip to the Pacific Coast is not prompted by political ambition. Only one declaration would satisfy the journals who are now attacking him and who evidently intend to make his stay among us as uncomfortable as they can. He would have to say he was not a candidate and would decline a renomination. Even that would not silence his critics. They would insist upon his declaring in favor of certain candidates and policies which all the world knows he disapproves. Were he to debase himself to that extent, the newspapers and politicians who are throwing mud at him would dismiss him from further consideration with words of contempt, as a horrible example.

Apparently the California editors who are lampooning the President are sorry he accepted the invitation to attend the ceremony of breaking ground for the Panama-Pacific Exposition. They are afraid that the visit will increase his prestige and make him friends. It is this fear that prompts the outcry over his coming. The critics do not care what becomes of the fair so they can injure the President. They would have abused him had he declined the invitation. Now they abuse him for accepting it. Nothing he has done or could do would please them.

We have no fear that the diatribes directed at the President will injure him in the estimation of his fellowmen, but we do fear that they will give California a bad name. The laws of hospitality cannot be violated with impunity. No man can gratuitously insult the guest he invites within his gates without incurring scorn and contempt. Unless we are mistaken the mud-throwing at the President at this particular time will be properly and emphatically rebuked when the electorate of California have an opportunity to do so.

There is an evil smell along the Eighth street causeway that ought to be abated. This smell comes from decaying vegetable matter dumped alongside the causeway or on the park lands on the north side, and left uncovered. During the last week or two passengers on the Eighth street cars have been almost overwhelmed by the stench encountered on the causeway. No such offensive condition should be allowed to exist. People residing in the neighborhood complain of it, and some have even moved away to escape the evil odors polluting the atmosphere. The stink is as unnecessary as it is unpleasant. A little reasonable care and diligence would obviate it. Had proper attention been given to the matter earlier there would have been no cause for complaint and no necessity for calling the attention of the municipal authorities to an offense of this character. It is a small matter, it is true, but it is one of those small matters that aggravate and provoke criticism. THE TRIBUNE hopes the nuisance will be speedily abated.

The Cost of Living Problem

Now it is in Austria that rioting and other disturbances have followed the increased cost of living. The recent railway strikes in France and England were primarily provoked by the decrease in the purchasing power of the wages paid to labor. Whether we say money is cheaper or food dearer, the result is the same-the man with a fixed income suffers from the decline in the purchasing power of the dollar. When the wage scale remains stationary while the prices of all commodities save labor rises, the effect is to decrease the earnings of labor.

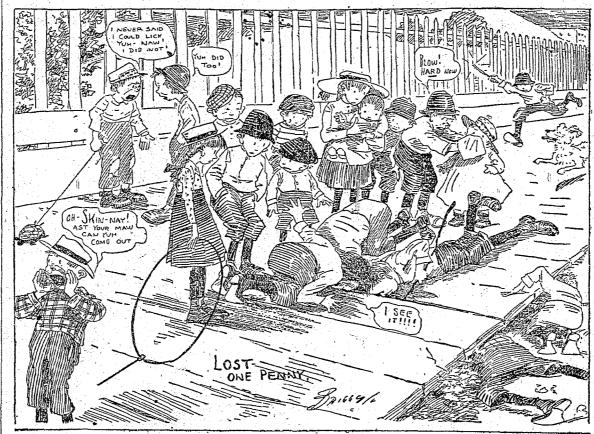

In countries where the margin of earnings above the cost of living is small, or practically none at all, the advance in the cost of the necessaries of life has inflicted hardship and privation. It has not only lowered the standard of comfort, but has brought into issue the elementary question of subsistence. Every workingman's table reflects the prevailing disruption of the relative standards of value. Measured by the price of other commodities, the wages of labor have decreased. Indeed, the compensation of all persons with fixed incomes has declined. The first and severest pinch, however, has been felt by the poorest paid laboring class. A condition of acute distress exists among this class, and that condition accounts for the recklessness and violence of the mobs.

In France the railway strike has been followed by food riots in many districts. These riots are nominally demonstrations to protest against the high cost of living, but in the last analysis they are protests against a condition which imposes hardship and even hunger on the laboring class. A laborer cannot now support his family on the same scale of comfort that he formerly could, although his earnings are rather more than less. He blames his condition on the high cost of food, which he is disposed to regard as extortion, but the trouble is that the wage scale has not advanced proportionately with the advance in the cost of necessaries of life.

Less acutely we have the same condition in this country. Here as in Europe the complaint is against the increased cost of living. It is explained that the increase in the volume of money has decreased the control of the Boston Pub. ont in long discloss slices and sitting its purchasing power. That is true in a sense, but it is necessarily gular green in front of the boston rub- out in long, rub-love sits purchasing power. As the value of everything concerned is measured by the dollar, the volume of standard currency is a factor in the equation. Still the agitation, of which the riots in Austria are a symptom, is for a readjustment that will equalize the wage scale with the increased cost of living.

That increase is world wide and is due to causes other than political and strong and solution of the strong and solution of the strong and solution on ice, and arrived in Boston fragrant Highlanders made a successful attack on and cold with the Georgia dew glittering upon them. cal, and the remedy for the distress it entails can only be a readjustment which will better equalize profits and earnings and so distribute the cost of production that the laboring classes will not be oppressed by an increasing disparity in the value of what they receive and what they produce.

The Pasadena Star says Johnson should be nominated for the Vice-Presidency. Which Johnson-Jack or Hiram? And why pick out the second place for a favorite son?

It proves that the city is expanding commer- directions and will cross courses. The cially, and that the growth of business is keeping pace with the increase of population.

Greed Is Again Penalized.

Frank B. McKevitt, manager for the California Fruit Distributors, says the eastern market for California fresh fruit has been ruined-for this season, at least-by shipping immature and unripe fruit. He is quoted as making this statement:

"Of the 1629 cars of grapes shipped from California up to the 10th, I'do not believe over fifty cars of them have been fit to eat. 10th, I'do not believe over fifty cars of them have been fit to eat. Indicate boundaries have been traversed. This is because of the peculiar condition of the climate this year. so that the situation demands a speedy agreement establishing comprehensive Tokays, for instance, have colored handsomely, but the weather has not been hot enough to give them the right amount of sugar.'

If what Mr. McKevitt says is true the fruitgrowers have themselves to blame for the condition of the market. For two or three years past the eastern fruit crops were very short, and in consequence anything in the shape of fruit shipped from California had a ready sale. But that temporary condition appears to have misled over inclosed property at any height bethe California growers into thinking green, unwholesome fruit could low 500 meters; that aerial craft passing be disposed of at any time. They have glutted the market with unsalable stuff and now find that even good fruit cannot be sold at

"Don't talk to the motorman," is a familiar legend on all the trolley cars, but apparently it has no meaning for the railroad men. It is a common thing for a motorman to carry on an animated conversation, during a long run, with another railway employe off duty. This causes ordinary passengers-pay riders-to wonder just what that legend means and why the railroad managers had it posted. Perhaps it was to remind the public of the distinction between passengers and railroad employes.

The President has sustained Dr. Wiley in the matter of employing Dr. H. H. Rusby, and now every enemy of the administration will declare that everything Dr. Wiley has done has been endorsed. Moreover, they will allege that the President has been frightened into endorsing it.

Who Owns the Air?

While rules which, by common concurrence of civilized governments, apply to water navigation may be analogous in many respects to those which navigation of the fields of air will require, they must be essentially broadened.

Navigation of the air will be at dif ferent levels or altitudes. Complicated These ships that go plunging through space over our heads will go not only in the same direction, but in opposite system of signals will be duplex or triplex, as compared with those controlling surface navigation. As questions of damage may arise each ship should be compelled to carry a national flag and a boldly displayed certificate or registry number as the most sample and indispensable means of identification. Such a conference gives scope to the scholastic wisdom of savants; but after these men have arisen and have read their papers, we still have that stubborn word

At a meeting of the Board of Super-risors this morning, resolutions adopted by the Oakland Chamber of Commerce were read memorializing the State Fish cate in this county, near Hayward the State game farm now located near that city, on the ground that it had been shown that grounds admirably suited for the purpose are obtainable in this county.

county.

Supervisor Kelley said he had received a letter from the secretary of the State Fish and Game Commission to the effect that the latter had available a tract of 160 acres free at Folsom in Sacramento county for the use of the State game farm. At the present time, the commission was paying rent for the ground now occupied by the farm and had been given notice to vacate.

He favored the reference of the communication back to the Chamber of Commerce with the hope that the latter might be able to induce some public-spirited citizen to donate a site to the county. He did not know that the supervisors could do anything in the premises and would like to learn through the district attorney, if the board could supply a site for a farm for game purposes.

County Clerk Cook said that he understood that an appointment had been made for the Cakland Chamber of Commerce, and the Hayward Board of Trade to meet the State Fish and Game Commission at Sacramento.

CANADA DETERMINES FATE OF RECIPROCITY THURSDAY

General Election Will Be Held Throughout the Dominion for Members of Parliament

are expected to be decisive on Canada's attitude toward reciprocity between that country and the United States, and on the continuance in power of the Liberal party under the leadership of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The American Congress has already ratified the reciprocity agreement, and after a protracted deadlock in the Canadian Parliament the question of Canada's ratification was at last referred to the judgment of the people.

The elections occur simultaneously in all of the ten provinces which make up the Dominion of Canada. As originally constituted, the Dominion was composed of Upper Canada, including the extensive English sections of Quebec, Nova Scotta and New Brunswick. Later the British North American Act of 1867 admitted British Columbia, Prince Edward Island, the North West Territories and New-foundland, all of which are now a part of the Dominion of Canada, except New-foundland, which did not take advantage of admission. More recently the western rovinces of Alberta, Saskatehewan and new Yukon Territory have elections are for the popular branch of the Dominion government, the House of Commons, consisting of 221 members, elected by ballot for five years. The strength of the two parties, Liberal and Conservative, at the time of the recent dissolution, was as follows:

Alberta
British Columbia
Yukon Territory 132

This gives the present Laurier government a normal majority of 43 out of a total membership of 211. To defeat the Government the Conservative opposition must make a gain of 22 seats, while to carry on the government and organize the House they must make gains of at least 25.

ISSUES AND LEADERS.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, now 70 years of age, has been Premier of the Dominion for over 15 years, since June, 1896, when his party, the Liberals, defeated the Conservatives under Sir Charles Tupper, Bart, known to Canadian politics as "the old war horse of Cumberland," from the name of his first .constituency, in his native province of Nova Scotia. Sir Wilfrid is a French-Canadian, and his own province, Quebec, with its overwhelming French population, has always given him strong support.

Sir Wilfrid has toured five of the nine Canadian provinces during the cam-paign, and everywhere he has maintained that the reciprocity agreement was a purely business transaction, and that the leader of the Montreal Stock Exchange, loyalty of Canada was not to be trafind William Frice, a millionaire lumflicked for any trade advantages.

purely business transaction, and that the loyalty of Canada was not to be trafflicked for any trade advantages.

The Conservative opposition has been under the leadership of Robert Laird Borden, of Hallfax, who first challenged the reciprocity pact before the Canadlan Parliament and afterwards carried the contest before the people. The grounds for his opposition are twofold. On the one hand the Conservatives are high protectionists and they contend that the present agreement is but an entering wedge, while on the other hand they contend that trade under such a pact would create a community of interest between the United States and Canada which could not but weaken the British connection, and would eventually bring about the annexation of Canada to the United States.

States.

During the campaign on the stump and in the newspapers, the utterances of President Taft that "Canada is at the parting of the ways" and that the tie binding Canada to the Empire was so slight as to be almost imperceptible, have been used to prove that the United States has ulterior designs on her Canadian neighbor, while the annexationist sentiments attributed to some American pub lic men and newspapers have aroused the cry that reciprocity is the forerunner of largest population and the greatest number of seats at issue, %6 in all, as against 55 seats for Quebec, the next largest province. Ontarip has been strongly Conservative for many years. The province was peopled in the early days by the United Empire Loyalists who fled from the thirteen colonies when the American revolution proved successful. British territory to settle upon anew. To these people the annexation cry possesses a strong appeal, and the Opposition has had its emissaries hard at work in the United Empire Loyalists districts.

reciprocity measure had fallen upon George P. Graham, the Minister of Railways, who on the stump and through his newspaper has been making a vigorous campaign. Hon, Mackenzie King, the Minister of Labor, has also been activ on behalf of the measure. William Pat-terson, one of the authors of the pact is an old man, and he has been kept busy in his own constituency, while Sir Alam Aylesworth, who resigned a few days after dissolution as Minister of Justice, s precluded by deafness from taking as active a part as he would have liked in the campaign. High Guthrie, who seems slated as Aylesworth's successor, and A G. Mackay, the Liberal leader in the provincial field, have also been among the most active supporters of reciprocity be-ore the people of Ontario.

On the Opposition side, the econom and sentimental arguments against the measure have been set forth strongly by George Eulas Foster, the Finance Min-ister in the last Conservative administration, and other leading candidates of the opposition. Sir James Whitney, Premier of Ontario, Frank Cochrane, Minister of Mines of that province, and W. J. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, have also taken a part in trying to defeat the pact and the largely composed of American farmers government.

While the reciprocity pact is the main point of attack there are several charges of scandalous conduct in administration, and a number of local questions which have aroused heated controversy. PROVINCE OF QUEBEC.

The French-Canadian Province of Quebec is considered the pivotal point in this contest, as it was prior to the time Sir Wilfrid Laurier came to power. In 1896 the interior, is having a by his fellow Libcoord-birth, changed in the French province. In 1910 campaign of 1998. F. W. Rutherford, forthe government adopted the Navy Bill, by which it was decided to establish a States Canadian navy, to be under the control what of the Canadian government in times of drew from the fight. A. G. Cross, a

Borden proposed as an amendment a large cash contribution, to be used by the British admiralty to build dreadnoughts. The French Conservatives, led by F. D. Monk, of Montreal, objected to both proposals

They were backed by the group known as Nationalists, in the province of Quebec. This Nationalist group, headed by Henri Bourassa and Armand Lavergne, former supporters of Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the Canadian parliament, has consistently opposed any policy which would bring Canada into the foreign wars of the British empire. Up to that time, though both men were members of the Quebec legislature, they had kept out of the Edden Quebec legislature, they had kept out of the Federal arena and had not attacked Laurler. With the raising of the naval issue, however, they began a series of public meetings and caused the signing of thousands of petitions protesting against the naval program. Bourassa, who is a grandson of the late Louis Joseph Papineau, leader of the Canadian rebellion of 1837, is a man affited with great oratorical powers and the Canadian rebellion of 1837, is a man gifted with great oratorical powers and sways the masses by the vehemence of his appeals. He is especially effective in speaking French, for he appeals to the people of that race to show themselves the equals of their English-speaking frellow-citizens in all things, and kindles their pride as no man, not even Sir Wilfrid Laurier, has ever done.

In this campaign Bourassa and Monk are working together. Monk is opposed to the reciprocity pact on economic ground; Bourassa says reciprocity is a minor issue, and was adopted by the government only to throw dust in the eyes of the electors and make them forget the naval program. Bourassa is not get the naval program. Bourassa is not himself a candidate, but he has addressed meetings in most of the constituencies in the Montreal district. He has especially tried to visit the places where Sir Wilfrid Laurier spoke in his first tour of Quebec province, to destroy the effect of his former leader's appeals. The Nationalist combination has candidates, with Conservative support, in many of the constituencies of the Montreal district, and in the other divisions the straight Conservatives have their own candidates, most of them being

English-speaking.

The reciprocity cause is being upheld in the province of Quebec by Rodolphe Lemieux, minister of marine and fisheries, one of the most eloquent of Canadian Platform speakers, and Hon. Sydney Fisher, minister of agriculture, who is especially active among the farmers. Dr. S. H. Beland, who has lately become postmaster general and solicitor general, Hon. Jacques Bureau, are the other leaders among 1.1 government candidates. On the prosition side, besides Monk and Bourassa, are Herbert B. Ames, the Conservative organizer; Charles J. Do-herty, a former judge; J. G. H. Bergeron, long a member of the Canadian House, and a host of other candidates, while in the Quebec district Rodolphe Forget, the procity fight.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier sits for one of the divisions of Quebec City, but in addition he is a candidate for the constituency of Soulanges, in accordance with a custom prevalent in Canada.

NOVA SCOTIA.

In Nova Scotia, the province by the sea, W. S. Fielding, the Canadian father sea, W. S. Fielding, the Canadian father of the reciprocity pact, is fighting hard for his favorite project. R. L. Borden, the Conservative leader, is also a Nova Scotlan, and though he was defeated in 1904, he came back strong in 1908, and 1904, he came back strong in 1908, and has as his running mate A. B. Crosby, a former mayor of Halifax, who is particularly strong among the working people. They are opposed in Halifax by A. Y. McLean, who gave up a seat in Parliament to become attorney general of Nova Scotia and gave that up to be a candidate for Parliament again, and Doctor Blackader, a Halifax boy. The government party claims that the opposition leader will be defeated at home, while the opposition claims that it will hold its own and improve its position.

In opposition to Fielding in Queens-Shelburne is F. B. McCurdy, a native of the county, who is now a leading busi-

Recently they were the guests of Mr. Barton's uncle, Samuel Scott, a capitalist of Indiana, and were entertained lavishly. They leave the East in a day or so for Europe. They plan to spend some time in England and later visit the principal points of interest on the continent. Mrs. Barton was formerly Miss Lemore Martin, an attractive East Oakland girl. land girl.

Beauty Is Always a Target

By LILLIAN RUSSELL

(Copyright: 1911: By Lillian Russell.) UPERLATIVE beauty is not greatly to be desired. All history teems with the fact that the world's most beautiful women have not been the happiest-and a beautiful woman is always the target of good and bad thoughts. If she can only learn to accept the good and realize that any impure or jealous thought directed at her will reflect not upon herself, but upon the thinker she will divest herself of much suffering. Until the world knows that only good has power, beautiful people will have to fight against attack from all sources, and a sure barrier against thoughts of this kind is to stand firm in the decision that you will think only good thoughts.

If you are beautiful, consider yourself blessed, for beauty and loveliness are blessings. Accept them as a gift-cherish them, guard them, without conceit or arrogance. Never let a sneer disturb the contour of your face.

Remember that all normal people love to look upon a beautiful person, so always try to look your best when you appear before your fellowmen. Comparisons mean nothing, as there are so many types, so many forms of beauty and every living man or woman has some beauty which can be revealed. A lovely hand is a joy to an artist; an arched instep is a joy to a sculptor. The Italians, Greek and French, because they for years have been educated to seek beauty, know more about it than other nations. When men or women of those countries turn to look at a fine man or woman, one often mistakes their admiration for rudeness when they are absolutely innocent of anything but a keen appreciation of beauty and pay their sincere respects to it whenever they find it.

I heard a great French painter say that he sat for hours each day in the Bois to find beauty and he found it in each person who came within his vision—if it were nothing more than in the way a mother walking along with her children, the grace with which a lady sat in her carriage, or the way in which some girl lifted her skirts in crossing the street. As for the children, he said: "They are all beautiful, for youth is always beautiful."

One may always be youthful and beautiful if one thinks youth and beauty. An illustration of this fact is potently in existence in the personality of a-poor little woman whom I visited in the insane asylum in Canada. Her insanity was caused by the death of her lover, who was shot in the war of the rebellion in 1863. At that time she was 17 years of age. She still waits for her lover, tends her flowers, stands at the window and to those who do not know her she appears in every way still 17 years of age. No one who sees her believes it possible that she is old in point of years. I have seen this woman and to me she appeared absolutely no more than 17.

Is this not a proof that beauty and age are in the mind, that when the mind stops thinking of age and decay, age and decay cannot appear? The idea of time stopped in this little woman's mind at the age of 17 and her youth and beauty remains there. When she dies she still will look 17.

This was a great lesson to me of the necessity of youthful thoughts if one wishes to remain young and beautiful. Remember, the mind will hold its enthusiasms as long as the heart holds

Six-Year-Old Son of Deceased Attorney Releases Its Silver Tide.

Prominent Men Pay Tribute to One Whose Life Work Was Good.

Yesterday afternoon, in the presence of several thousand people, the fountain erected in Lakeside Park, to the memory of the late John Edmand McEiroy, three times elected city attorney of Oakland, was dedicated in a simple but impressive manner by Mayor Mott and a number of other officials and representative people of the city.

Immediately after the dedicatory exercises, water was turned on in the fountain by the little 6-year-old son of the deceased attorney, John Edmund McElroy, Jr. This was a task which had been delegated to the mayor, but which the latter elected to assign to the son of the deceased city official, whose memory was being honored, so that, as the lad grew to manhood, he would be able to look back to the time when he had taken part in the exercises in honor of his father.

The fountain during the exercises had impressed every spectator with its beauty, but the effect was so heightened when a column of water shot into the air from it, and the small and main basins filled, that the throng joined in cheers of appreciation. of appreciation.

PARK DIRECTORS.

The exercises were under the auspices of the board of park directors, comprising Walter G. Manuel, president; James P. Edoff and Wilson S. Gould; Henry F. Voght, secretary; Malcolm Lamond, superintendent, and Oscar A. Prager, landscape architect.

The fountain was designed by Architect Walter D. Reed, in collaboration with Oscar Prager. It is the most beautiful on the Pacific Coast.

The exercises took place in the open, on a platform which had been erected admining the memorial, on which were souted about 250 people, comprising the widow and two children of the deceased attorney, his brothers, his sisters and other relatives, a number of city officials and clergymen of various denominations, together with the speakers and other entertainers of the day.

From the site an excellent view could be obtained, not alone of the fountain, but also of Lake Merritt, which was alive with a fleet of white-winged sailing craft.

the fountain comprises an esplanade of marble mosaic, surrounded by a circular wall of white marble five feet high, inside of which is a marble bench ex-tending around the circle. This circle is tending around the circle. This circle is 60 feet in diameter, and is broken by four entrances, each ten feet in width. In the center is the fountain itself. rests about a foot and a hair above the floor of mosaic. It has a depth of 18 lnches and a diameter of 36 feet.

Another basin is a few feet higher and on the wall of this are a dozen spouts through which the water falls in the lower receptacle. Above this is a pedestal three feet in height supporting marble bowl, into which the water falls after leaving the pipe. This bowl is eight feet in diameter and weighs three tons. The water flows over the rim like a veil of silver.

The main entrance is on the south, at the head of a series of terraces which gradually increase in height, the farther they get away from the bowling green, which is one of the features of the park. In the mosaic at the main entrance is imbedded a circular bronze slab on which is inscribed the following:

ORIGINATED WITH EDOFF.
The idea of a fountain in honor of the memory of Mr. McElroy originated with James P. Edoff, at the time president of the Oakland Park Commission, and of which, at the present time, he is also a member. He had long been officially associated with the deceased and had learned to admire his probity and his unselfish devotion to the city of Oakland. When McElroy died Edoff conceived the idea of erecting a memorial to him in some of the parks and, with that end in view, raised a subscription among the friends of the deceased. About $3000 were obtained when it was deeded to the property of the park were obtained when it was decomposed that amount with $17,000 of park flyds for the reason that the fountain was intended as a means of setting forth the estheticism of the public as well as honoring a public official. During the past three years Mr. Edoff has worked untiringly along both lines and yesterday the which had attended his labors.

They consisted of several songs by the Golden Gate quartet, some selections played by Scott's band, a prayer by Rev. Edward P. Dempsey and orations by President Manuel, Mayor Frank Mott, John W. DEDICATE A WORK OF ART. "Men would rather live and do business "Men would rather live and do business in a dity of parks and playgrounds, and our special business here, on this Sabbath day, is to dedicate for the use and pleasure of our people, our children and our children's children, a thing of beauty and a work of art. The propriety of erecting and naming works of art in public places in commemoration of our deceased public men, the Oakland Park Board stands sponsor for. We believe that a lesson is thereby tauent the youth that a lesson is thereby taught the youth of the city, that uprightness and good citizenship are not always forgotten and are his sturdlest assets. "The alleged high level of the community has been found to be a myth. The community as a whole has not been of high standard because it had no chance to be. To make more entitled the children bettherefore, we have give the centuren pet-ter places to grow up and be educated in. The corresponding uplift in the com-munity is remarkable, and so I say th you, that parks and playgrounds pay from every practical standpoint. They are like a breath of fresh air sweeping away the germs of stagnation and start-ing the city on a new plane of thought and endeavor. JUSTICE TO VIRTUE.

"The dedication of this structure, which designates it the John Edmund McElroy Memorial Fountain, bears witness to that citizen's character and does justice to his virtue. The conception for which this fountain stands as the result, was made possible by the utilization of the water system contained in the park. Underneath the structure is a 200,000 gallon reservoir. The water from two wells within the park, furnishing 4000 gallons per hour, is pumped through the fountain and thence finds its way to the reservoir without waste, loss or cost, so far as the water display is concerned. From the reservoir the water is handled by centrifugal pumps through the distributing system of the park, maintain-ing an equal pressure at all outlets, whether one or many streams are in use. The department is about to extend the usefulness of this system to include Har-rison boulevard, Adams Park and East

Shore park. PANELS COMING.

The bowl at the top is a single piece of quarried marble, eight feet across and veighs approximately three tons. architect of the work is the architect of the department, Mr. Reed. It will be noticed that panels are left unfinished, which are to be later filled with bronze inserts, typical of California life, desig-nated by the well known sculptor, Doug-las Tilden. The federation objects to the criticism of its apprentice system and explains that it became necessary to establish the present system on account of the abuses that had been practiced by various employers.

The unions contend that employes should not be subjected to physical examination but that the foreman should be left to judge the ability of his men to do their work. The unions also asked for a better hospital system and they contend that the railroads should pay more money and keep the institutions in better condition.

QUALITY WHICH WON.

"That was not all of John E. McElroy by any means, but that came first because it was the quality which won the genera appreciation of his other qualities. His humor was good humor. He knew that none are exempt from folly. So, though wise and circumspect himself, he did not gibe at the fool. With a heart as tender as a child's, he would have himself shared the pangs of a peignant wit, but, with all the lightsome front with which he faced the sober duties of life, there was no fallure to know how desperately earnest a thing life is. In the resolute endeavor to merit the apprival of his own science he won the approval of all. FAMILY LIFE.

"It was my privilege to become, long ago, familiar with his family life. Early deprived of the grace and love of a mother's presence, he, nevertheless, was one of a family of brothers and sister and a father who survived him but, unfortunately, was not spared to witness this day, in which mutual respect and consideration and exclusion of petty troubles left strength and spirit to en-counter the greater tribulations of life. This rested upon no assumption of his own superiority, but seemed, rather, a tribute to the worth of those with whom he had relations. It was a demarkation to limit his playfulness. It commanded respect for his opinions. It commanded respect for his opinions. It was a dignity, inseparable from kindilness, which made him consider the feelings of others, and left one, at the conclusion of intercourse with him, feel something of a new value in one's own self-respect—after all, a tremendously important thing in this country, where, to put in practice the theory of equal rights and privileges, requires a measure of mutual respect. To gain the respect of another, one must first have his own.

CONTINUANCE OF INFLUENCE. "Though a chapter is closed, the story is not ended. His influence will go on, and to the name that he has left we have promised remembrance until long after the tale of each one of us is told. Here will be his name engraved in bronze, and here, under the open sky, the people of this city have built a shrine to his memory.

"For the honor to him, knowing him as I did, I say he would have cared little, but for one thing he would have cared much. That is, that the occasion of his life and public service should be the esthe and public service should be the establishment by all the people of so beautiful a spot and structure where they will remember, not the name of John E. Ables Shuis Out the Seals Before Lunch, but a Wild Heave Beats Wolverines Over the Bay

Oakland got an even break in the double-header with the Seals yesterday. In the before-lunch affair in the presence of 8000 faithful fans Harry Ables came back and pitched one of those excellent games of his holding the Ewingites to three lone hits and nary a tally. Over the bay in the afternoon almost as big a crowd saw Ewling's men gather the long end of a 3-to-2 score. Up to the final round everything was rosy for the Wolverines, but in the ninth Tyler Christian asked to be relieved and the substitute slabster, Gregory, cut loose with a wild heave that let "Buck" Weaver meander to the rubber with the winning run. Following are the scores of the games:

Willie Comes Home With Victory Over McFarland, Who Fought Wolgast a Ten-Round Draw

Since Willie Ritchie knocked out Tommy McFarland in four rounds at Coalingo Saturday night the fans are sitting up and wondering what is going to happen to Johnny McCarthy when he tangles with the Ritchie party in a ten-round bout Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Wheelmen Club at Piedmont Pavilion. Ritchie was never blamed for having a big wallop concealed about his person, but any boxer who can knock out McFarland must be able to hit hard. Tommy went ten rounds to a draw with Champion Ad Wolgast about a year ago, and if Wolgast failed to damage Mc-Farland and Ritchie knocks him out, Willie must be considered a member of the near-champion class. The knock-out was no fluke. Ritchie simply jabbed McFarland into submission and when he had him where he wanted him he shoved over a right-cross that did the business. McCarthy will have to show much improved form to keep business. McCarthy will have to show much improved form to keep awake during the ten rounds of Wednesday's scrap.

Ritchle blew into town last night from the oil belt and is naturally enthusiastic over his showing. He made a big hit with the fans of the oil belt and has been promised a number of lucrative matches in Taft and Coalinga. "After disposing of McCarthy," said Willie this morning, "I will issue a challenge to any lightweight in the world and I think my record entities me to some consideration.

weight in the world and I think my record entitles me to some consideration. McFarland was considered one of the toughest boys in the business to beat, but I put him away in four rounds and I didn't half try. I consider Tommy a better boy than McCarthy and will surely hook the Harp."

Naturally McCarthy's opinion differs from Ritchie's and from Johnny's training came the following bunch of conversation: "Ritchie may have knocked out McFarland but he' will find Johnny McCarthy a different kind of boxer. These clever felolws have always been a mark for me, and I am not afraid of the punch last wind and will make a game try to heat yet met, but Hickey is confident. ### CARTER SUCCESSION

Montana Republican's Remarkable Career Comes to an End.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 18 .- Former United States Senator Thomas H. Carter of Montana, for years a notable and picturesque character in national politics, once chairman of the Republican National Committee, and since last year National Committee, and since last year chairman of the American International Commission, died at his home early yesterday. He was 57 years of age.

Carter had been under the care of a physician for months. He was able togo about, however, and his aliment, a filling of the lungs with clotted blood, did not become acute until about a week ago. A Baltimore specialist was summoney last Wednesday, and at that time the attending physician expressed confidence in the patient's recovery. But the melady became worse, and death resulted.

HAD REMARKABLE CAREER.

HAD REMARKABLE CAREER.

Carter had a remarkable capeer. It extended over twenty-two years of Congressional and official life at Washington. This embraced service as the first representative elected from Montana, two terms in the United States Senate and exceutive positions as Commissioner of the General Land Office, chairman of the Republican National Committee in the second and unsuccessful campaign of Benjamin Harrison for the Presidency, president of the Board of United States Commissioners for the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis, and since last March chairman of the newly created International Joint Commission, American Section, especially charged with Canadian boundary matters.

An Ohioan by birth, an Iowan by adoption and a Montahan long before that Territory was admitted to statehood, Carter jumped to the front almost from the outset of his work in Congress. Perhaps the most remarkable of all of his forensic achievements was his defeat of a big river and harbor appropriation bill which he regarded as a political "grab" measure during the McKinley administration.

Supported

SUPPORTER OF MCKINLEY.

President McKinley did not favor the bill, and Carter, always a strong administration supporter, began a speech against it at 10:30 o'clock at night and talked continuously on the day following, when the session of Congress expired. As a lieutenant of Senator Aldrich, the Republican leader of the Senate for many tepublican leader of the Senate for many cars, he also did notable work.

At one time Carter was mentioned as a possible successor of Associate Justice woody of the Supreme Court of the Inited States, and it was said President faft had considered him for Secretary at his interfer, to succeed Richard A. Sallinger. Among the men suggested as possible head of the Republican Naional Committee for the campaign of 1912 he former Senator's name had been menoned.

His defeat by a Democrat for re-election to the Senate caused Carter's retirement from that body March 4 last. President Taft then named him a member of the International Commission. He framed and fought for conservation legislation, opposed extravagance in irrigation projects and campaigned for the Taft Canadlan reciprocity bill.

ANGELS ARE VERY EASY.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—Captain
Patsy O'Rourke gave two Sunday object lessons showing why the Angels should be content to remain in sixth place. The morning argument was a 2-to-1 affair. The afternoon show was a wild, weird and woozy exhibition that was topped off with a 9-to-8 score. Twenty-two base-hits were poled in the afternoon mixture, when both Leverenz and Byram were kicked out of the box.

Catcher Kern won the Doyle Park affair for the Sengtors when he beta the

With one down, Kern was hit by a pitched ball, but Unpire Hildebrand would not allow the claim, ruling that Kern had intentionally gotten in the way of Agnew's delivery. The next time the ball was seen it was traveling in the direction of. Santa Fe avenue, and the game was over. Scores:

EDITOR TRIBUNE: In accordance with THE TRIBUNE'S editorial of this evening entitled "Tinkering With the Constitution," I only can say that the extraordinary changes going on in political matters might be weighed and found wanting. The primaries being a small group of self-elected individuals, will eventually become a family vote. Whereas, the initiatory and referendum does at the initiatory and referendum does excessive would depend upon a decree of away with the legislature; and the recall of the judiciary practically abolishes the federal government. I ask where is the victory of drifting into the tribal condition when by so doing he would be giving to the Japanese that which belongs to others. THE TRIBUNE'S editorial makes me think of the truth in full, viz.: A wrong to one is a wrong to all, and wronging all to get at one is want of

REST FOR ROLPH

Strenuous Nights Ahead of Him.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18. — Out of preparation for the closing week of what has proved one of the most strenuous has proved one of the most strenuous campaigns in the political history of this city, James Rolph yesterday spent the entire day with his family and a few visiting friends at his home in San Jose avenue, except for a few hours devoted to enjoying the beauties of a perfect day by driving in Golden Gate park.

Joying the beauties of a periect day by driving in Golden Gate park.

With 22 meetings to be attended during the six nights the present week, of which the majority will be mass meetings, Rolph is in the best of spirits and health, "fit to undertake another month of it," as he said yesterday. Not only will he be called upon to carry out an exhausting schedule of night meetings, but each noon hour will find the mayoralty candidate addressing at least three catherings. three gatherings.

The Rolph campaign will be closed, even as it was inaugurated, with a monster mass meeting at the Globe theater, in Mission street near Twentyfourth, on the night of September 25.
This meeting practically will be turned over to the neighbors and friends of Rolph and will be addressed by men whose names are household words in the Mission district.

They trundled "Baby Mine" onto the Macdonough theater's stage; last night, and a big Oakland audience gleefully adopted the brain-child as its own. It was a great evening for screams of laughter, outbursts of hysteria and other things that come trippingly forth from the type-writer of the press agent.

Not being as old in seasons nor as able to lie uhhlushingly, we are not inclined to doubt the word of the advance agent myto has dubbed. "Baby Mine" "the funniest play ever written." We will admit that last night's audience smiled, gurgled, giggled, laughed, guffawed, shouled, shrieked and wept for joy.

We'are forced to put it down that those present fairly begged for mercy before the socond act was more than on its way. We'll agree that the pop, pop of vest buttons was very annoying and that the tear-filled aisles overflowed their banks. But that's as far as we will go.

PENDLETON, Or., Sept. 18. — Monsteur E. la Gautler, who writes articles for a French syndicate of newspapers at the head of which is the Paris Petit Bleu, had a real thriller to cable from Pendleton. Two masked cowboys posing as robbers presented two guns at the head of the Monsleur, one block from Main street.

They ordered him to "cough up," and when the Parisian coughed in dead literal earnest they explained that it was his cash and his valuables they wanted. He handed them over.

Wringing his hands, the writer told of Wringing his hands, the writer told of his predicament a few minutes later in a local hotel. Then Secretary Gwynn of "The Round Up" entered and told how he had heroically captured the brigands and forced them to "give up." He then had the inestimable pleasure, so he says, of returning the valuables.
